Politics: Intelligence agencies can use this tool when smart city is installed in other countries to gain information about them. Then countries and their population will no longer have privacy and security.

Money: Robbers can take these valuable installed materials: sensors, cameras, routers and others to sell them or use them. It will cost money to reinstall those materials.

Entertainment: Some bad actors can troll the waste collection services by manipulating the sensors to make the waste collection redirect the collectors to the same localisation several times.
